

Dear Parents / Carers

Next Thursday (4th March), we will be celebrating World Book Day at home and in school!

We have lots of exciting activities planned including...

- Dressing up as your favourite book character on the day. This includes children at home too. You do not have to go out and buy a costume, there are plenty of ideas online that you can create at home using things around your house. Please share your photos with us from the day.

- 'Silly Places to Read'. This involves taking a photo of you reading in a silly (safe) place. This could be under your bed or in a den made from pillows etc. Staff are taking their photos this week so we will share them soon on Class Dojo to give you plenty of silly ideas!

- Special activities on Thursday- your teacher will set you World Book Day activities to complete at school or at home.

- 'Share a Story Corner'. We will be sharing videos of staff reading their favourite stories for you. We will then be challenging you to video yourselves telling us your favourite story!

More details on all these activities will follow in the coming days on Class Dojo and we will begin to share our photos and videos from Monday.
